

Come visit us in Cross Village and learn to create art outdoors. Our Open-Air (Drop-in) Workshop days are intended to foster creativity and encourage experimentation. Everyone comes together in a social act of collaboration. The only entry requirements being an inquisitive nature, a curiosity about new and traditional media, and a lack of inhibition about creating in a semi-public space.

You and your group will have your own art table, apart from other groups under a sunshade in the studio's beautiful yard. Come have fun with us. We follow all current COVID19 protocols to ensure your safety.

Drop-in Workshops: How It Works

LAKE LIFE

Megan Swoyer

All levels - Watercolor

July 13, 11am-2pm, $70

Join watercolorist/art teacher Megan Swoyer as she leads you on a veritable summery, "lakeside journey" right here, outdoors, at the studio. You'll paint quintessential Michigan - including dragonflies, wildflowers, and waterbirds. Students will paint A FEW different works and learn techniques that include wax resist, wet-into-wet, and petal shadowing. Megan's easy-going teaching style ensures your painting time will be relaxing and rewarding. Supply list available at threepinesstudio.com.

CAPTURING THE POETIC IN LANDSCAPE PAINTINGS

Heidi A. Marshall

All levels - Pastel

August 3 & 4, 11am-5pm, $400

This two-day workshop will stress the importance of expression in painting. Painters often feel frustrated that they can't seem to create what they see in their mind's eye. We will explore various ways to enter a painting to get a feeling of what we want to achieve from the onset. We will also learn more about the parts of painting important in creating – namely, composition, value, edges, temperature and more. There will be some process experimentation and various ways of looking inward as well as outward. This class includes demonstrations showcasing interesting techniques.

THE ART OF PAINTING FROM LIFE

Louise Pond

All levels - All mediums welcome, pastel (preferred)

June 27, 9:30am-4pm, $150

This one-day workshop will be a fast-paced exploration of painting en plein air, making marks, eliminating the unnecessary, telling the most with the least amount of details. Individual instruction on seeing value correctly and understanding color, temperature, and composition. Contact gallery for supply list. Louise's favorite pastels and 2 different papers provided for exploration. Wet medium students must have a basic concept of color mixing.

Quillwork Workshop (Registration required)

QUILLBOXES

Jacob Keshick

All levels

August 7-11, 10am-4pm, $170, includes materials

5-day quill box workshop with Jacob Keshick. During the week individuals will learn the techniques of quillwork and will complete a 3" quillbox. Bring brown bag lunch or purchase lunch from Cross Village Mart.

Jacob Keshick is an Anishinaabe living in Northern Michigan who creates birch quillboxes decorated with porcupine quills. Jacob grew up with quillwork from a young age observing firsthand the quillwork of his mother, Yvonne Walker Keshick. Jacob made his first quillbox in 1997, he continues to make boxes of various sizes and shapes depicting wildlife, observations, or optical illusions. Yvonne Walker Keshick will make a guest appearance during the workshop.

We are honored to have both mother and son sharing their knowledge and skills.

WHO AM I?

By Julie Buchholtz

Book reading, Activity and Book signing

July 27, 2-4pm

"Who am I?" a young girl asks her mom

as she snuggles close. "You are the fire that burns and the eagle that soars. You are the oak tree and the wild rose," says momma. Written from an indigenous perspective, Who Am I? tells the story of how we are all connected to our ancestors, our past and future, and the Earth--and how it is everyone's duty to fend off darkness, connect to the past, offer safety and shelter, and color the world with beauty. An Own Voices, Own Stories Grand Prize winner. All ages welcome.
